

Lee J Allen

Front End JavaScript Developer with a passion for React...

Profile

As an accomplished, mature, versatile and results driven professional with a proven track record, I have always had a passion for technology and with a background in setting up and running successful businesses. With a wealth of experience I can adapt fast having recently trained in the latest React fundamentals using hooks and functional based components. I have been self learning with React over the last 3 years and I really enjoy using the react JS library.
